

Theo. Shepherd and son Charley have put a stock of goods in their post-office building. This makes two stores in Wilmington; it looks as if times were getting better already under our Republican governor.